

The role of older migrant women in global migration

Bela Hovy, Chief
Migration Section
Population Division/UN-DESA

The NGO Committee on the Status of Women Subcommittee on Older Women (SCOW) and the NGO Committee on Migration

Thursday, 16 April 2009
Hardin Room, 11th Floor, Church Center

Presentation overview

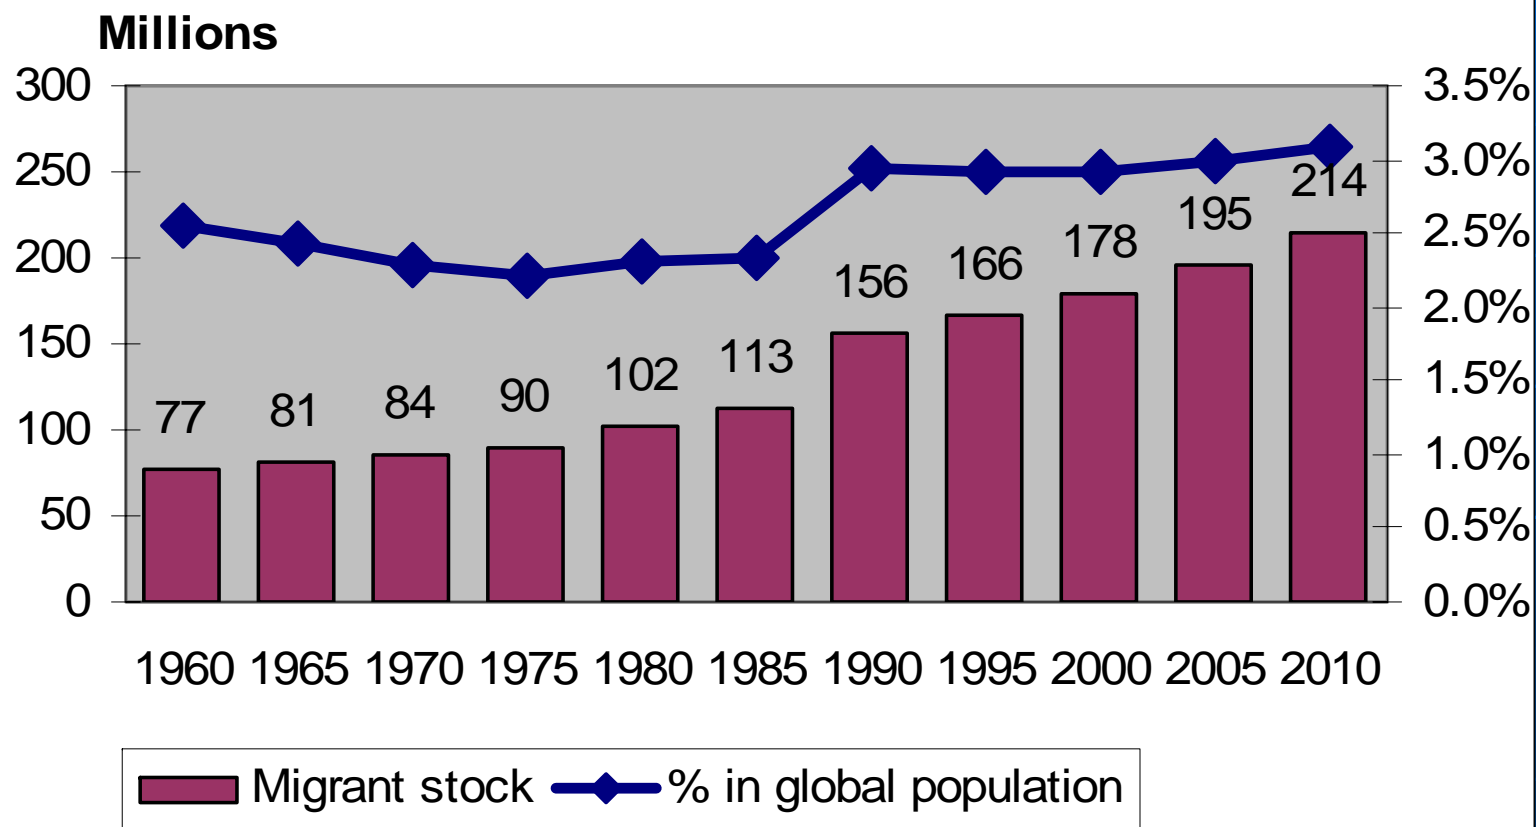

- I. Global migration levels and trends
(source: 2008 revision)
- II. Participation of older migrant women
(source: Global Migration Database)
 - I. Evidence from 125 countries (2000 census round)
 - II. Case study: the United States

I. Global migration levels and trends (latest global estimates)

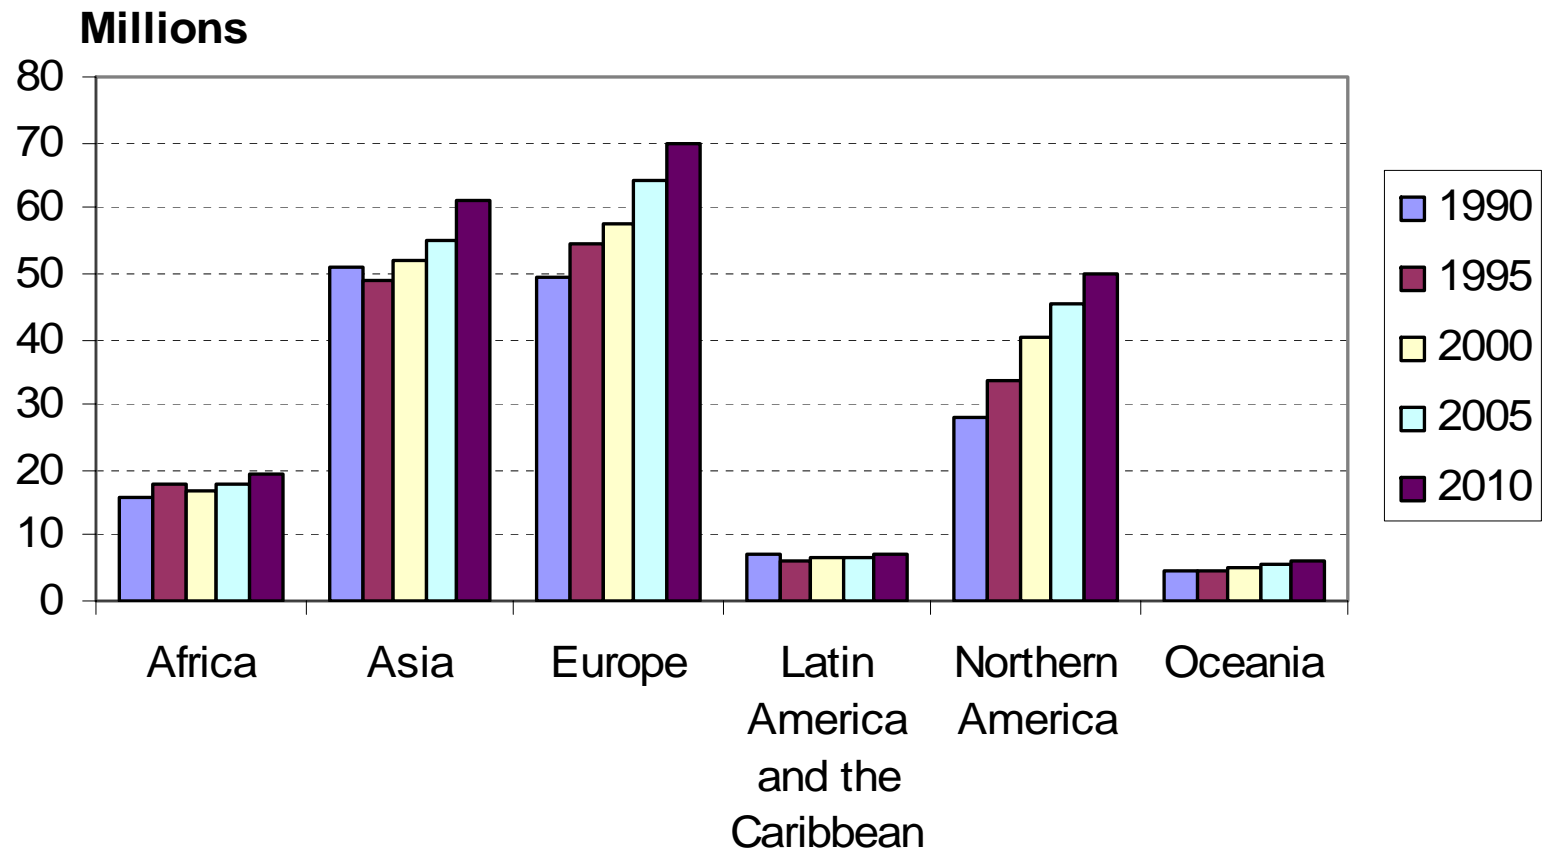

Global migrant stock

(abs. and as % of world population)

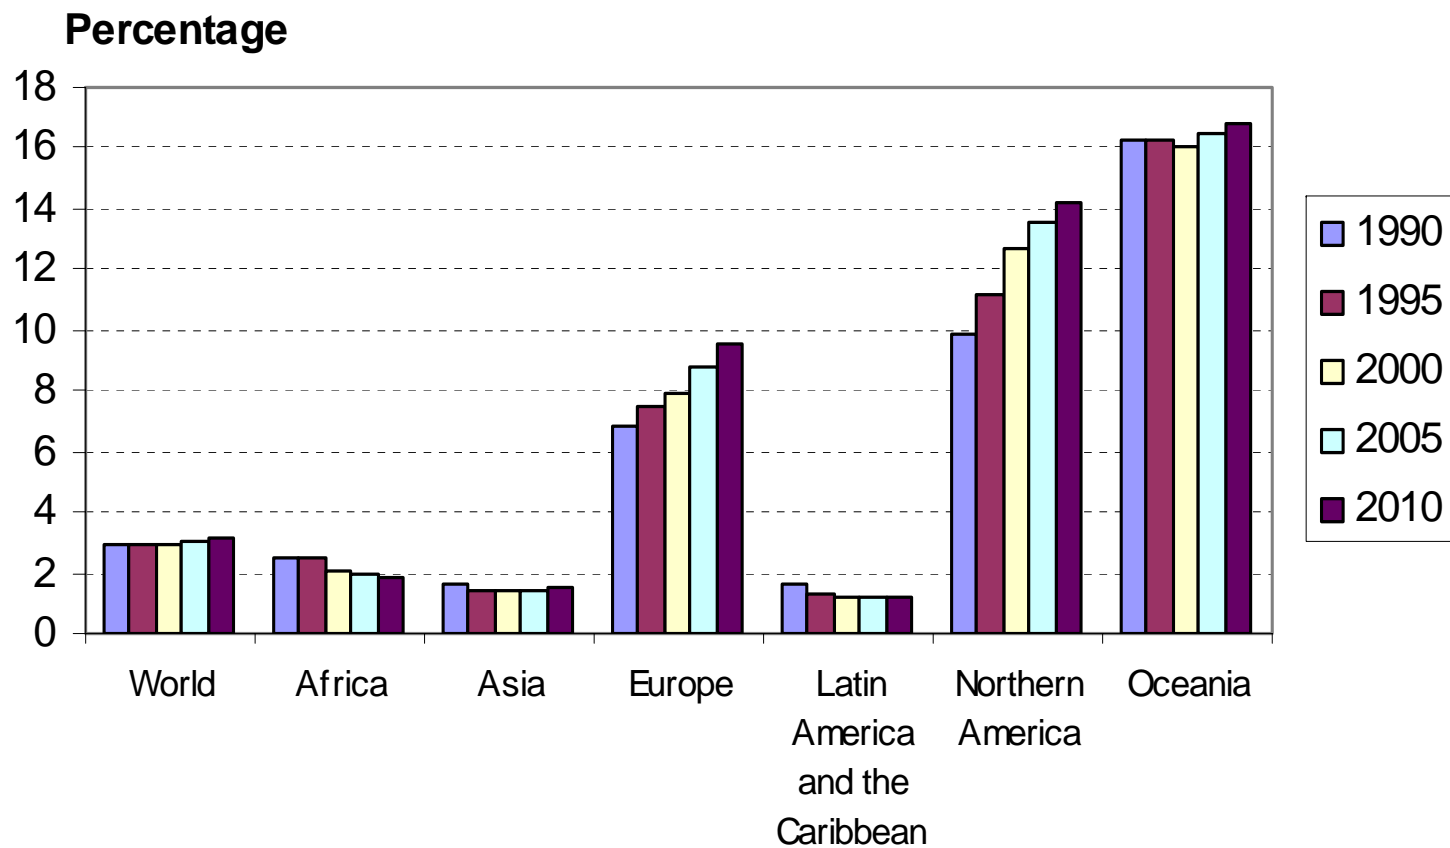

(Source: 2008 revision)

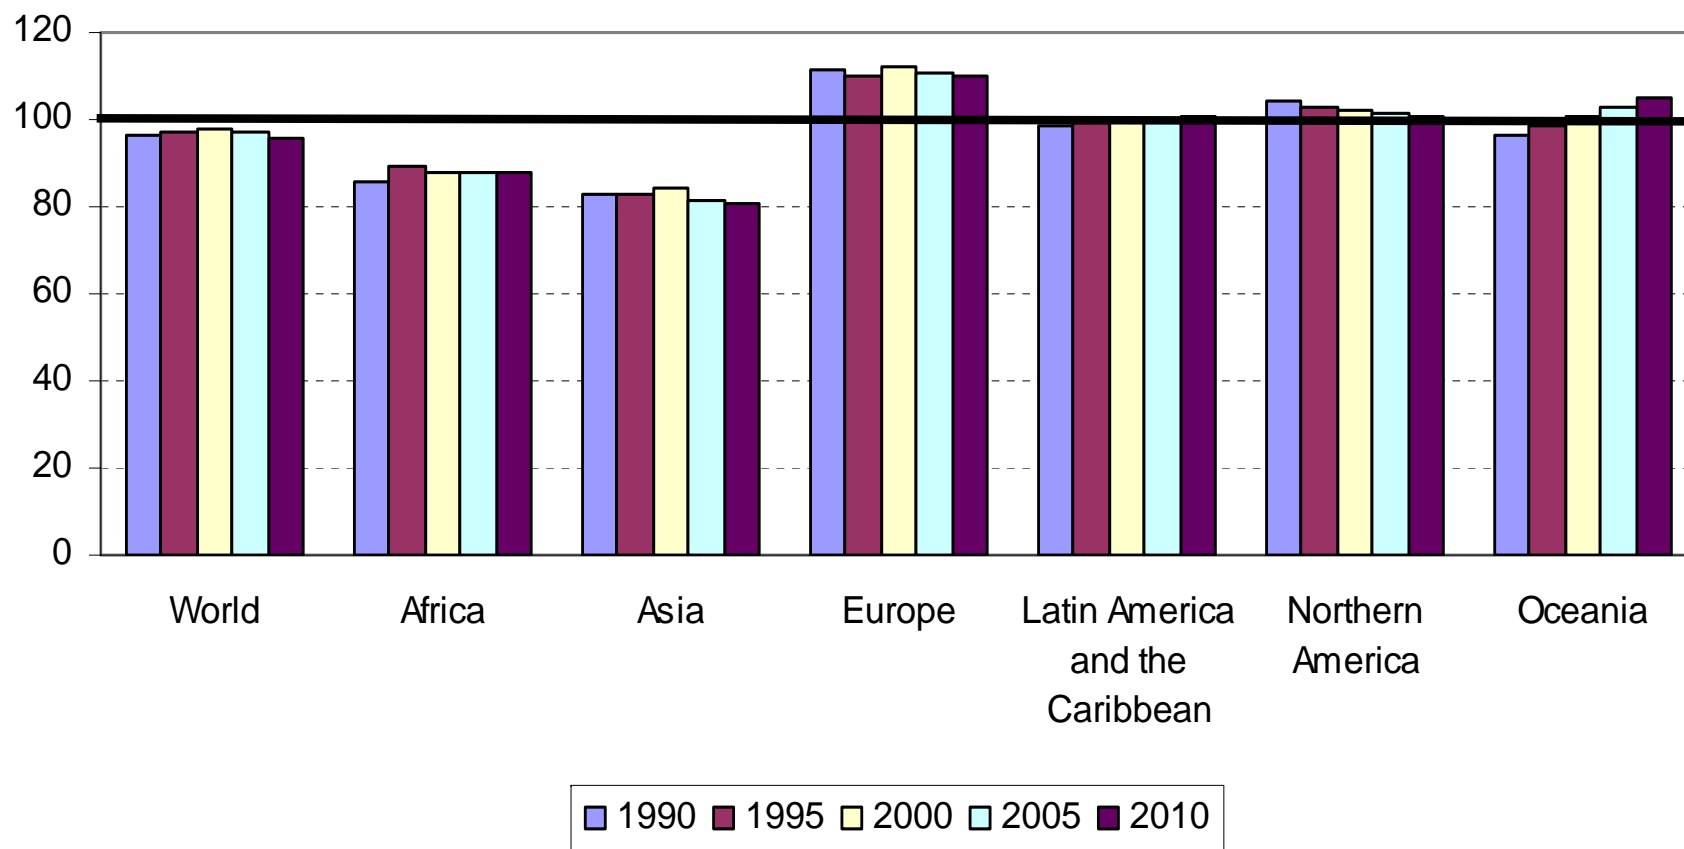

International migrant stock (2008 revision)

International migrant stock as percentage of total population (2008 revision)

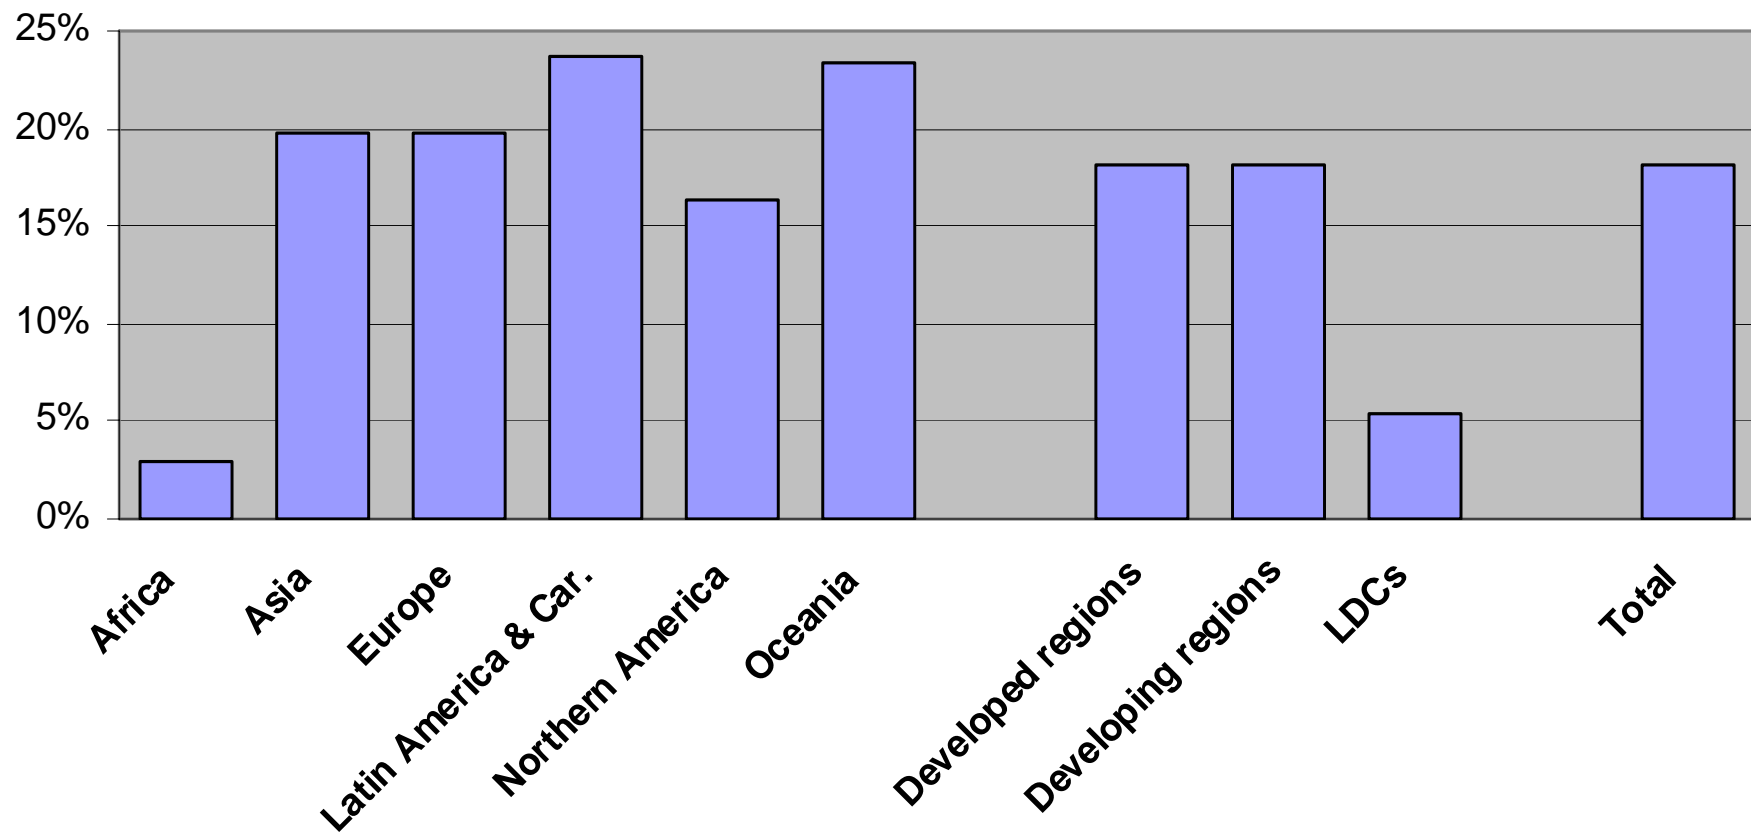

Number of female migrants per 100 male migrants (2008 revision)

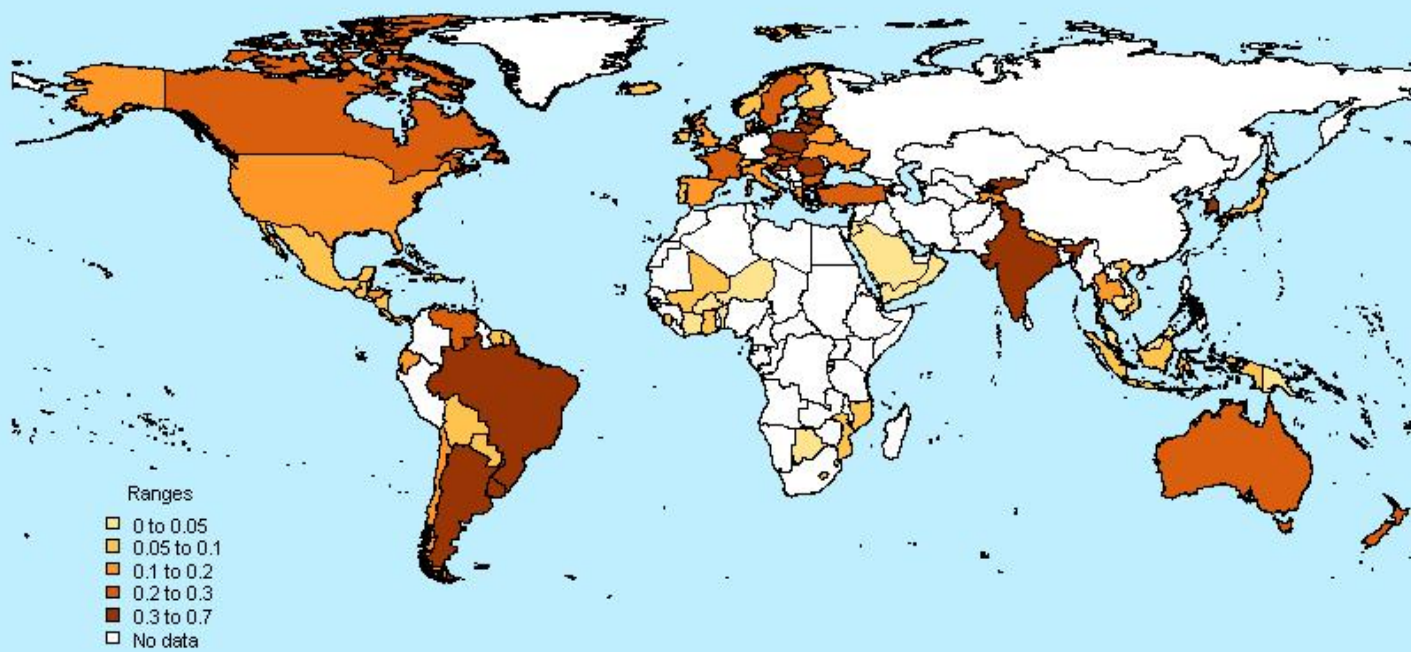

II. Participation of older migrant women

a. Evidence from 125 countries (2000 census round)

Proportion of migrants 60 and over
(2000 round of censuses, 125 countries)

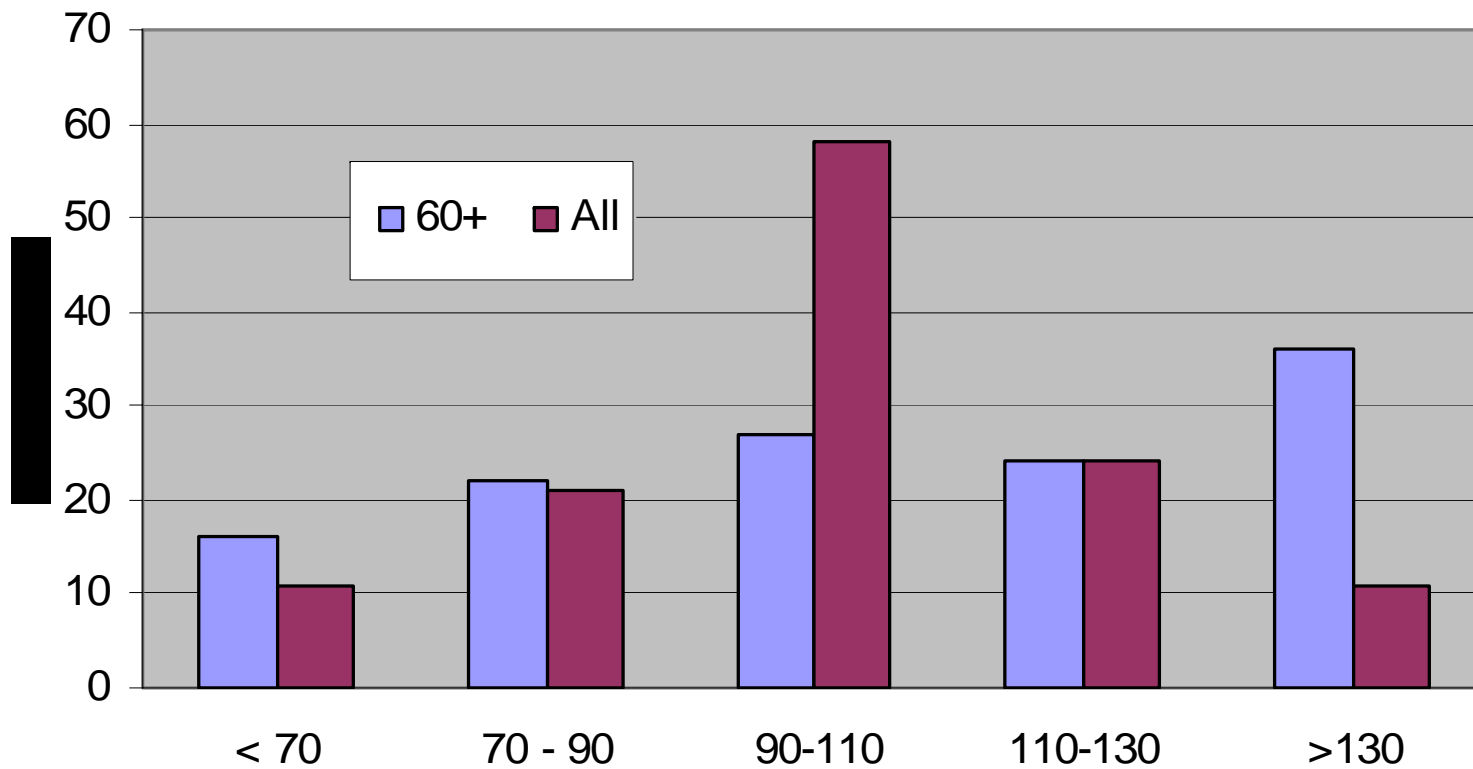

Percentage of 60+ over Total Migrant Population

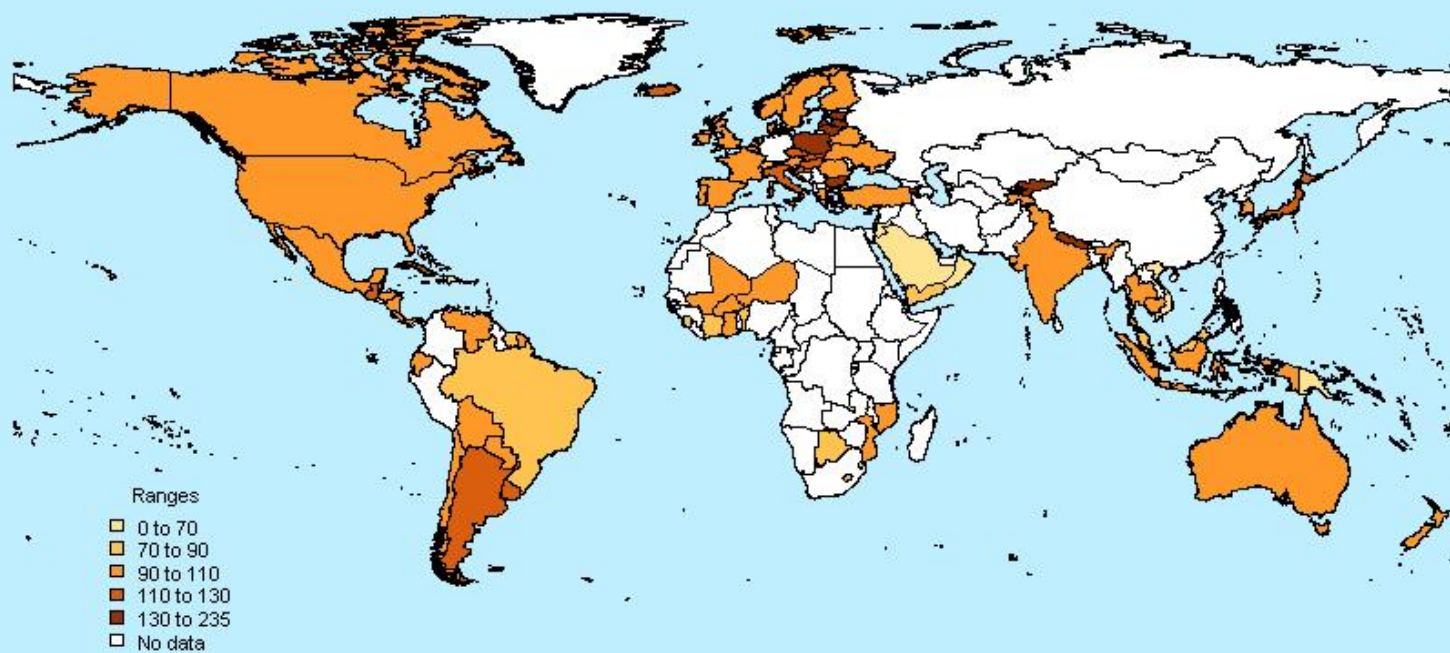

No. of female migrants per 100 male migrants
(2000 round of censuses, 125 countries)

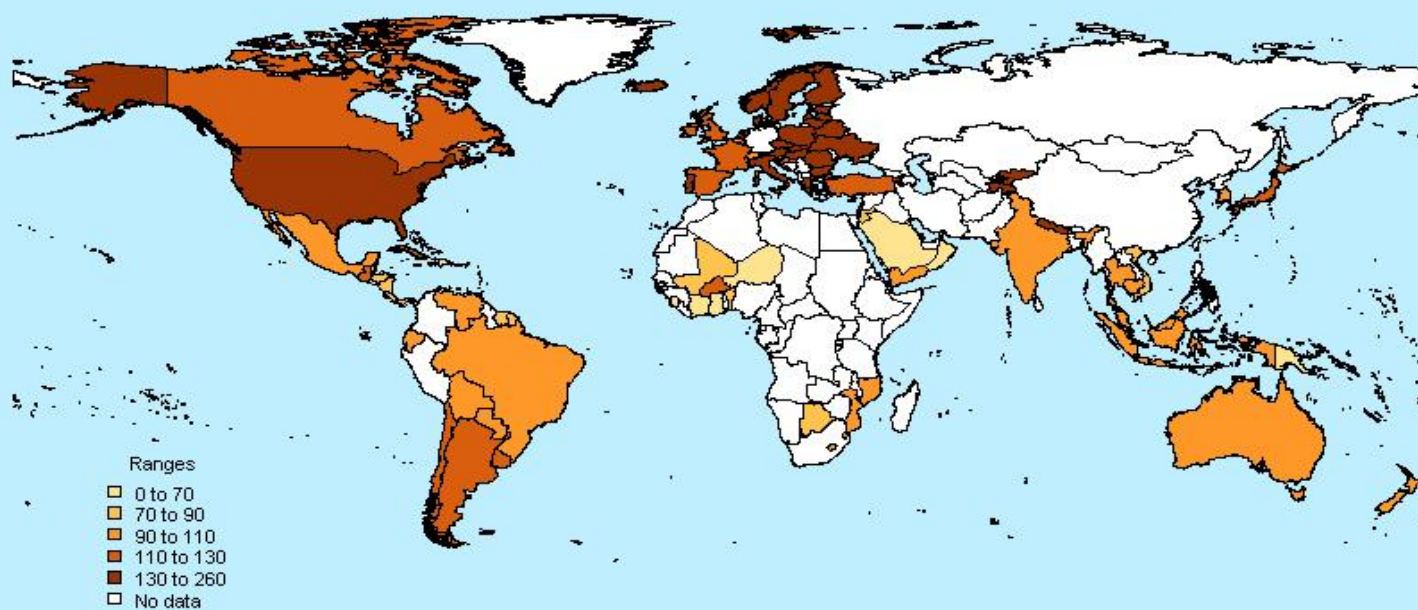

Number of female migrants per 100 male migrants
(2000 round of censuses, 125 countries)

Sex Ratio of Migrants (number of females per 100 males)

Sex Ratio of Migrants 60+ (number of females per 100 males)

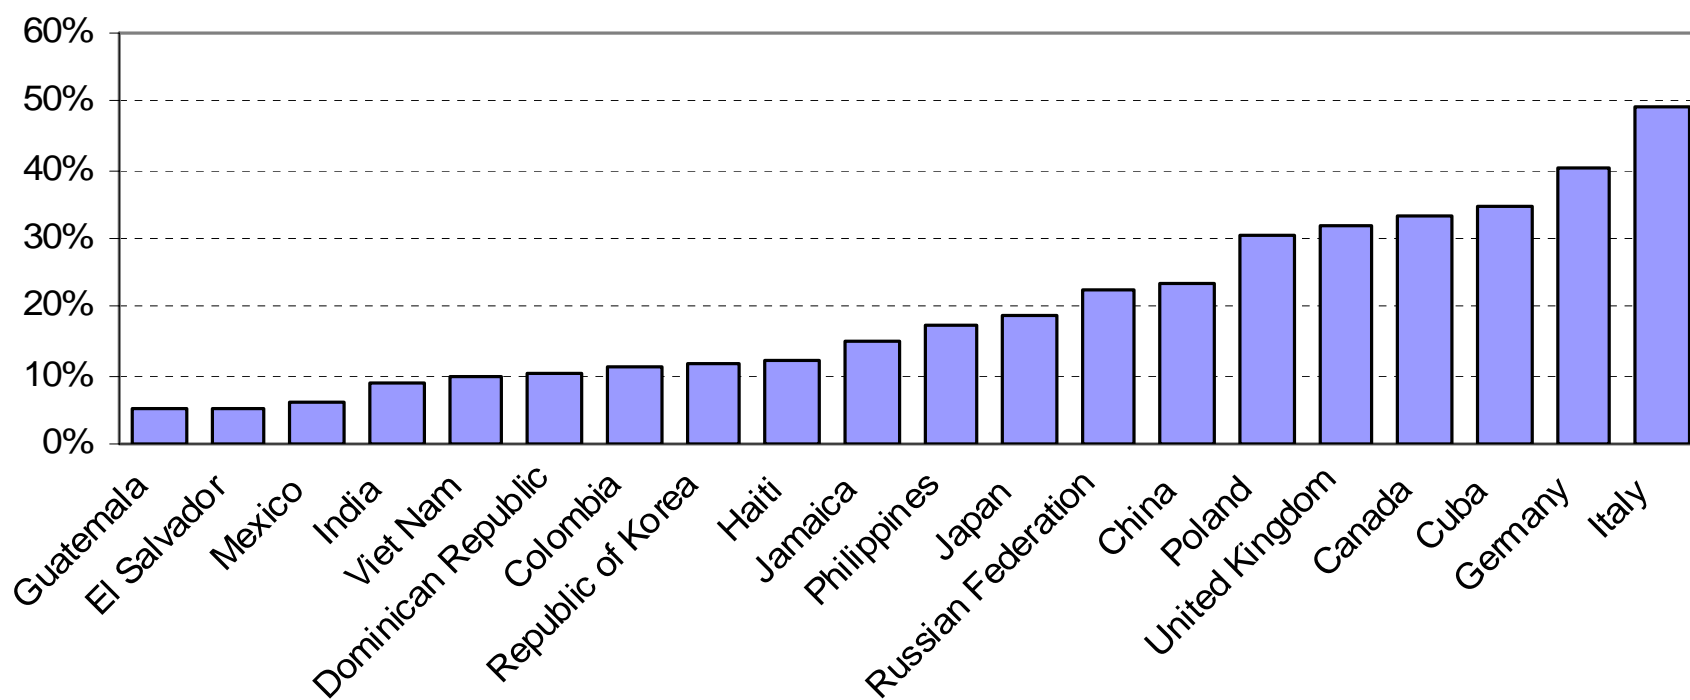

II. Participation of older migrant women

b. Case study – the United States

Size of the older migrant population

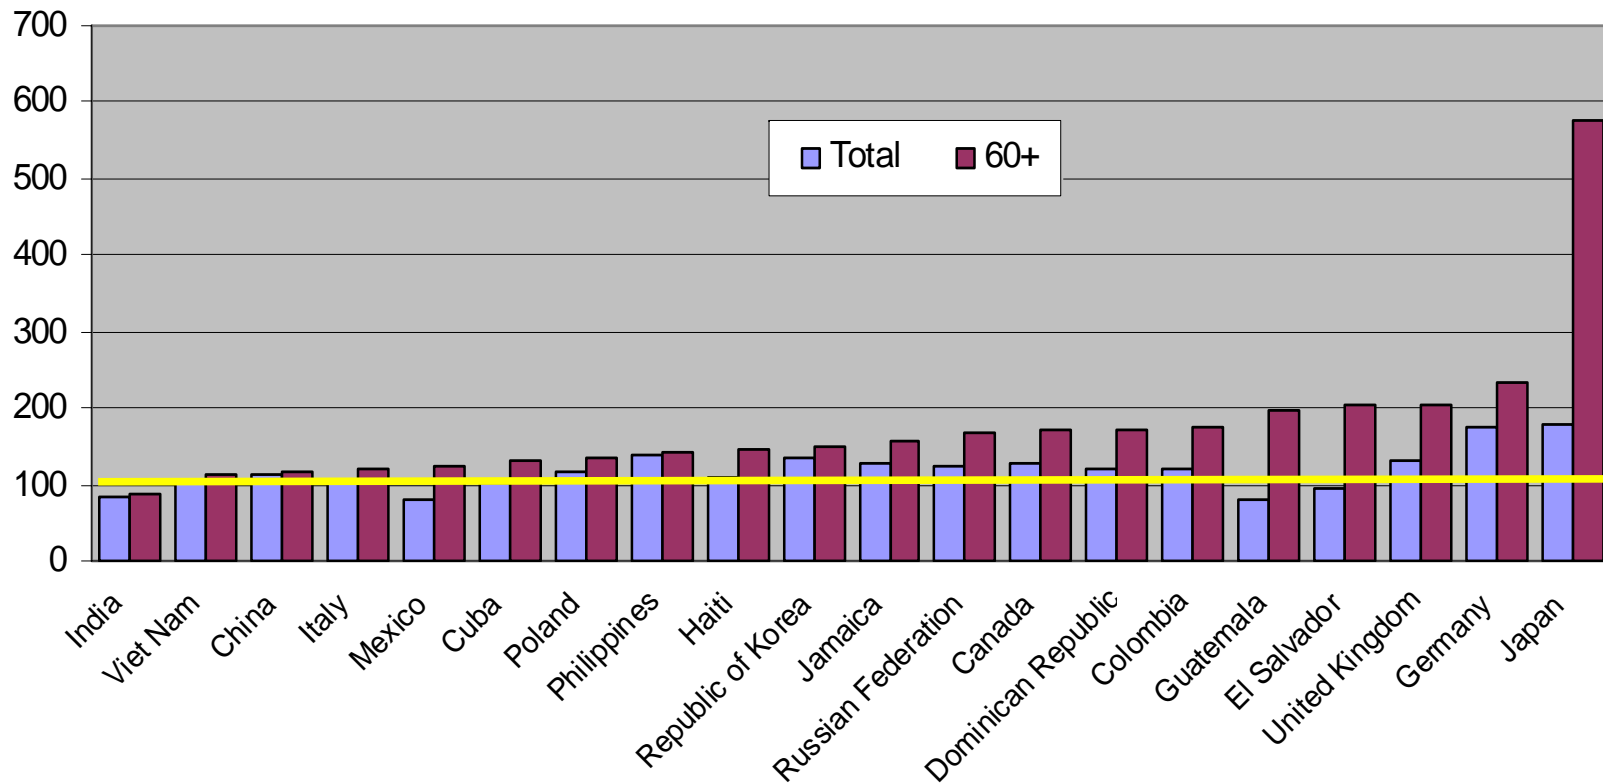

USA, 2000, 20 largest countries of birth

(% of international migrants 60 and > in total number of migrants)

Number of female migrants per 100 male migrants

USA, 2000, 20 largest countries of birth

Thank you!
Questions? Comments?

www.unmigration.org
migrationp@un.org